The End Of Poverty Sachs

In his 2005 work The End of Poverty, Sachs wrote that “Africa’s governance is poor because Africa is poor”. According to Sachs, with the right policies and key interventions, extreme poverty—defined as living on less than $1 a day—can be eradicated within 20 years. India and China serve as examples, with the latter lifting 300 million people out of extreme poverty during the last two decades.

Jeffrey Sachs - Wikipedia

Poverty is the state of having few material possessions or little income. ... Goal 1 is to "end poverty in all its forms everywhere". It aims to eliminate extreme poverty for all people measured by daily wages less than $1.25 and at least half the total number of men, women, and children living in poverty. In addition, social protection systems must be established at the national level and ...
